A new Commencement

Due to the growth in the size of the graduating class, UMass Dartmouth is implementing a new format for its Commencement exercise in order to shorten the length of the proceedings while preserving the tradition of having each graduate's name read aloud.

Starting with the Class of 2005, the Commencement will begin in the amphitheater with the formal awarding of degrees, presentation of honorary degrees and the keynote address.

Led by faculty marshalls, the College faculty, students and guests will then march to separate sites for the presentation of degrees, including the reading of the names of each graduate.

The College of Arts and Sciences will remain at the amphitheater with the College of Engineering processing to the Upper Quadrangle; the Charlton College of Business processing to the rear of Group I; the College of Nursing processing to the Main Auditorium; and the College of Visual and Performing Arts processing to the rear of Group VI.

Brian Helgeland Doctor of Humane Letters

Brian Helgeland, a New Bedford native and 1983 alumnus of the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth, has established himself as one of the leading screenwriters and directors in Hollywood.

In 1997, Mr. Helgeland received the Academy Award, Writers Guild of America Award, and the New York Film Critics Award for screenwriting for his work on the highly acclaimed L.A. Confidential. In 2004, Mr. Helgeland was nominated for an Academy Award and in 2005 won the PEN Award for his screenwriting work on Mystic River.

Based on the novel by Dennis Lehane, Mystic River is the story of three childhood friends who grew up in working-class Boston and are reunited after 25 years by a terrible tragedy. "It is a complicated tale told simply and beautifully," concluded the PEN Award judges. "The book was not an easy book to adapt. Brian Helgeland succeeds in capturing the dark, tangled intricacies of the book and in realizing the multi-faceted characters. He writes well, with a subtle but sure touch."

Mr. Helgeland's screenwriting credits also include Man on Fire, Blood Work, and Conspiracy Theory.

Mr. Helgeland made his feature directorial debut with the 1999 Mel Gibson crime thriller Payback, which won the Audience Award at the Cognac Festival du Film Policier. Among his directorial hits was the 2002 film A Knight's Tale, which illustrated Mr. Helgeland's versatility as a storyteller.

Mr. Helgeland earned his Master of Arts in Film Writing from Loyola Marymount University in 1986.

Diane Wood Middlebrook

Doctor of Humane Letters

Diane Wood Middlebrook is a highly acclaimed author whose most recent book is a biography about the creative partnership of Ted Hughes and Sylvia Plath, entitled Her Husband: Ted Hughes & Sylvia Plath, a Marriage, published in paperback by Penguin Books in September 2004. In an advance review, Publisher's Weekly declared that Her Husband would become "the gold standard" of books about the famous literary couple. It became an L.A. Times best seller, and is featured in A&E's Biography program on Sylvia Plath this year.

Dr. Middlebrook's previously published books include two other biographies: Suits Me: The Double Life of Billy Tipton, the story of a female jazz musician who lived as a man for 50 years; and Anne Sexton: A Biography, about the American poet who was a friend of Sylvia Plath. Dr. Middlebrook's next book will be a biography of the Roman poet Ovid, to be published by Viking Press in 2008.

In 2002, Dr. Middlebrook stepped down from her position as Professor of English at Stanford University to become a full-time writer. Currently, she is collaborating with the Stanford Alumni Association to develop the Stanford Book Salon, a virtual book group and online threaded discussion.

Dr. Middlebrook has received fellowships from the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Bunting Institute at Radcliffe College, the Stanford Humanities Center, the John Simon Guggenheim Foundation, and the Rockefeller Study Center at Bellagio. She was a founding trustee of the Djerassi Resident Artists Program, an interdisciplinary arts center in the Santa Cruz Mountains.

Dr. Middlebrook received her undergraduate degree from the University of Washington and her master's degree and PhD from Yale University.

Luis Pedroso

Doctor of Business Administration

A graduate of Lowell High School, Luis Pedroso was president, chief executive officer and sole shareholder of Qualtronics, a contract electronics manufacturing services company with $25 million in yearly sales, until its sale in 2000. Mr. Pedroso returned to the electronics industry in 2002 as co-founder and president of Accutronics, Inc. in Chelmsford, MA.

A civic leader dedicated to promoting education in the Portuguese community, Mr. Pedroso was the largest private donor to the Hélio and Amélia Pedroso/ Luso-American Foundation Endowed Chair in Portuguese Studies at the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth. The Chair, named in honor of his immigrant parents, brings distinguished scholars from all over the world to lecture on varied topics of importance in Portuguese studies.

Mr. Pedroso is now a member of the Advisory Board of the UMass Dartmouth Center for Portuguese Studies and Culture and has also been an active supporter of Middlesex Community College in Lowell. His commitment to education has led him to create the Portuguese American Scholarship Fund, an endowed fund for Lowell High School graduates of Portuguese descent administered by the Greater Lowell Community Foundation where he is a founding member and current board member.

In addition to his commitment to education, Mr. Pedroso continues to support many social and cultural programs including the Holy Ghost Society, St. Anthony's Parish in Lowell, the Senior Center for Portuguese elders administered by the Massachusetts Alliance of Portuguese Speakers, Spindle City Corps, a community service program for Lowell youth and many others.

Mr. Pedroso and his family immigrated to California in 1969. In 1973, Mr. Pedroso and his family moved to Massachusetts.

Honors indicated in the Commencement Program are based on seven semesters. The permanent record card kept in the Office of the Registrar for each student will certify the award of degree and carry his or her grades, averages, and honors (if any).

The names appearing in the Commencement Program represent an unofficial listing of candidates.

It is the policy of the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth not to discriminate against any applicant for admission or employment, or against any employee, or in any educational programs, on the basis of race, religion, national origin, age, veteran status, handicap, sex, or sexual orientation.

Academic Regalia

The ultimate ancestors of the modern institution of learning were the great medieval universities, such as those of Paris and Bologna, founded early in the twelfth century (Oxford and Cambridge followed soon after).

Originally, the university was a guild of Masters of Arts, and the degree was the token that full membership had been attained. Even as, after “serving his time,” an apprentice was licensed to practice his trade or “master,” so the Master of Arts was certified by his superiors and admitted to the practice of instruction and, therefore, the ceremony marking the occasion was known as “Commencement.”

The term “Bachelor” originally designated a man who was assistant to a small landowner, and in medieval times denoted the apprentice as opposed to the master workman. It is uncertain when the title of “Doctor” was established as a degree superior to that of “Master,” but at Bologna it was conferred in Law in the twelfth century, and Paris gave the degree in Divinity about the same time. There is mention of the “Doctors of the different Faculties” at Oxford in 1184, so that the term was evidently used as a title for those possessing the highest degree of learning soon after the establishment of the first universities.

At that time, everyone—men and women, royalty and commoners—wore gowns; that is, long, full-flowing robes, and the king himself decreed what quality apparel might be worn by whom. After about 1600 they were rarely worn by men other than legal and official personages.

The hood first appeared as a separate article of attire in the thirteenth century, but by 1600 it, like the gown, ceased to be worn at all except by legal, official, academic, and clerical personages.

During the early years of the medieval universities, scholars wore the same general type of clothing as everyone else: gowns, cloaks with hoods attached, or separate hoods and caps. After a while, details of scholars’ apparel were prescribed by university statutes to distinguish the faculties as well as the different degrees of learning. When the fashions of the people changed, scholars kept the original styles both because they were prescribed by university statutes and “because it is honourable and in accordance with reason that clerks to whom God has given an advantage over the lay folk in their adornments within, should like-wise differ from the lay folk outwardly in dress.”

In today’s academic procession, the regalia not only contribute pageantry and color, but also provide information about the academic status of their wearers. The cap, or mortarboard, is worn by all academics upon occasion; but only those who hold an academic degree wear the tassel to their left, and only those who hold the Doctor's degree are permitted tassels of gold. Gowns are of three basic patterns: (a) the Bachelor's gown, of unadorned black and with long pointed sleeves; (b) the Master's gown, also of unadorned black but with an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist, square cut with an arc cut away; (c) the Doctor's gown, velvet-faced, with bell-shaped sleeves and bars of velvet on each sleeve.

Hoods are of three shapes and lengths, also corresponding to the degree held by the wearer. Their binding or trim is colored to indicate the department or faculty to which the degree pertains, while the lining is decorated in the colors and arrangement characteristic of the institution which awarded the degree. It should be noted that some institutions depart to a lesser or greater degree from these general rules in the design and execution of their academic regalia.

The mace, once a terrible instrument of medieval close combat, has come to symbolize the power and authority of an appointed or anointed leader. Many universities, eager to engage in the medieval pageantry reflecting the origins of our earliest universities, have adapted the mace as a ceremonial staff borne at the head of processions traditionally marking the beginning of convocation and commencement. It is the emblem of authority for presidents and trustees.

The University of Massachusetts Dartmouth Mace, created by Richard Creighton, Professor of Fine Arts, is the gift of the late Vice Chancellor for Student Services Emeritus Celestino Macedo and the late Special Assistant to the President, Norman Zalkind LHD '81.
