Program overview

The Department of Public Policy is an interdisciplinary academic department that offers its students a wide variety of graduate educational options including a traditional and online Master of Public Policy (MPP) program, and online graduate certificates in education policy, environmental policy and public management.

All of the Department’s programs of study center around courses that emphasize the development of policy analysis, applied research, and public management skills.

UMass Dartmouth’s Department of Public Policy offers students the opportunity to work with and learn from an interdisciplinary community of scholars who are actively engaged in the world of public policy and who regularly work closely with policymakers in federal, state and local government and a myriad of non-governmental organizations.

Application requirements

Earned baccalaureate degree

All applicants to the Master of Public Policy must have an earned baccalaureate degree from an accredited 4-year college or university in the United States or comparable non-U.S. degree/diploma from a recognized foreign institution of higher education at the time of matriculation. Undergraduate seniors may apply in their final semester with the expectation that they will have graduated prior to enrolling in MPP courses.

Graduate school application

All applicants to the Master of Public Policy must complete and submit UMass Dartmouth’s Graduate School Application. The application may be submitted electronically or by mail. See www.umassd.edu/graduate/prospects/waystoapply.cfm.

The Master of Public Policy employs a “rolling” admissions process. Students who meet the requirements for matriculation and fully complete the application requirements will have their applications reviewed upon completion. If accepted, students can begin enrolling in courses that are offered for registration after the date of acceptance.

Letters of recommendation

Every applicant will be required to submit at least two letters of recommendation. For recent recipients of the bachelor’s degree, at least one of the letters should be from a professor familiar with the student’s academic work.

Statement of purpose (essay)

Admission into the MPP program at UMass Dartmouth requires an essay of 600-900 words explaining the applicant’s interest in the program and purpose for applying to the program. The essay should include the applicant’s graduate study objectives, previous policy-related or public management experience, and undergraduate preparation for the course of study. The applicant should also submit a resume or a curriculum vitae.

Other requirements

Graduate Record Examination (GRE) or Graduate Management Admissions Test (GMAT)

Applicants to the Master of Public Policy must submit GRE (general test), or GMAT scores taken within 5 years of the application. Applicants that have already earned a graduate degree from an accredited institution are not required to submit GRE scores.

Applicants who have earned a graduate certificate from the UMass Dartmouth Department of Public Policy are not required to submit GRE scores.

Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL)

Applicants whose native language is not English are required to demonstrate that they are proficient in English by taking the TOEFL, which is administered worldwide. A minimum TOEFL score of 250 is required on the computer-based test and a minimum score of 600 is required for the paper version of the test.

This requirement is waived only for those who had English as their primary language for secondary school or college instruction, who have successfully completed a year of advanced secondary school or college/university study in the US, or who can be present in person to meet with officials of the university at the time of application for admission.
To earn a degree

To complete the MPP degree students must:

- Complete a total of 12 courses, including 7 courses from the program's common curriculum, 3 courses in the student’s selected policy concentration area, 1 free elective, and an Internship.
- Apply their knowledge in the field. The UMass Dartmouth MPP requires students with less than 2 years of substantial and relevant public policy or public management experience to complete an internship. The field work component of the Internship (2 credits) will be waived if an individual has at least 2 years substantial and relevant work experience in a policy making or public management position, although all students must enroll in the academic seminar component of the Internship.
- Compile and present a professional e-portfolio. In their final semester students present a professional portfolio of the work they completed during the program before a faculty committee for review and approval. Students should begin developing their professional portfolio in their first semester of study.
- Demonstrate mastery of an area of professional specialization. Students must select a policy area concentration by the beginning of their second semester. Available concentration areas include:
  - Public Management
  - Educational Policy
  - Environmental Policy
