

ACHARYA RAMSAMOOJ ARYA MEMORIAL LECTURE SERIES

Presents

Pandit Ramadeen Ramsamooj,
M.Ed.
3R's Foundation & UMass
Dartmouth

Lecture on

“Acharya Ramsamooj Arya’s
Influence On Super
Accelerated Learning
Theory (SALT)”

Date: Friday, November 4, 2011

Place: CCB-115, Chalton College of Business

Time: 12 (noon) - 1pm

Refreshments: served at 11:45am

FREE and OPEN TO PUBLIC

A loving remembrance of the influence of his father, Acharya Ramsamooj, on the “father” of the SALT educational model. A dropout, field worker, and farmer, the self-taught and self-motivated senior Ramsamooj established his own village school, Pathshala. Through him, the younger Ramsamooj’s first-hand exposure to the Indian education model via his father influenced his later formulation of the Super Accelerated Learning Theory (SALT). Pandit will identify specific components of the Indian model which influenced SALT.

Pandit Ramadeen Ramsamooj, M.Ed., is a faculty member with the Center for Indic Studies at UMass Dartmouth and Director of the Three R’s Educational Foundation. He is an educator, musician, philosopher, & spiritual mentor. He founded the Saraswati Mandiram Institutes of Holistic Health, Music, Yoga, Science, & Philosophy as an offering to the local community.

UMass | Dartmouth