Congratulations to the Class of 2018!

The College Now/START program congratulates all seniors who graduated on May 12th! We are so proud for all the hard work and effort you have put into these past years. After all the sleepless nights multitasking between exams, homework, and rushed meals to get to class on time, you have made it.

You have succeeded in college, learning skills that will help you succeed in anything you put your mind to. Give yourself a round of applause for all your accomplishments during these four or five years. Take a moment to recognize how far you have come and feel proud of yourself, knowing that we have always been cheering you on!

You accomplished this for yourself and only you know the struggles and obstacles you had to overcome, and the lessons learned along the way. “Once College Now, Always College Now!”

Ariany Pina, and Arnie!

College Now/START Grads celebrating at the ALANA Graduation Ceremony. We are so proud of you!
Craig’s Corner

I would like to personally thank all of the University and community members who made our 50th Share the Dream Banquet possible. This celebration was made especially memorable by the attendance of more than 20 alumni of the program who were able to share their experiences and current roles within the commonwealth and beyond. As always, the first year cohort’s success remained at the center of our celebration and highlighted the need for programs like College Now to continue to provide opportunities for students to showcase their ability to be academically successful.

College Now is excited to implement the components of our newly created Don Howard Scholars Program during the 2018-2019 academic year. It was an honor to award the first ever Don Howard Scholarship to our rising senior in the Nursing program, Hannah Cannastra. It is programs like this that help us continue to honor students who are committed to academic excellence while serving their local communities. We are thrilled to be able to expand the Don Howard Scholars Program, increasing both the numbers of the recipients and amount awarded as we move forward.

CONGRATULATIONS to the class of 2018! We wish you the best of luck in all your future endeavors. We are so proud of your accomplishments and feel lucky to have you represent our University and program in the workforce. Please continue to utilize our office and know that we are here to help you in any way possible. Once College Now, Always College Now!

Eye of the Broken Mirror
By Harrison Gbarbo

I know my people
But who truly knows me
They all have perception of who I am
I look in the mirror
I see confusion, Low self esteem
Mixed with ambition to achieve great things
Strength and Progress
When my mother looks at me
She sees Joy,
greatest accomplishment
The blessing of God
When my father looks at me
He sees a reflection of himself
And all he strived to be
An extension of himself
When my 7 year old nephew stares
He sees his hero
A role model
someone to look up to
Dance moves and habits to imitate
My closest friends see
Someone that is always positive,
filled with joy
And always put others
before himself
A man addicted to gospel music
Harrison Runs on Gospel
Generation X sees
Someone who was born in the tech era
“I had to walk 10 miles in the snow
to get to school”
Stranger’s first impression, “just another black kid”
Does not produce anything positive for society
Definitely a wanna be thug
Looks angry at the world
Media see a danger to social structure
The day comes to an end
As I returned home
Put up the pieces of the broken mirror with tape
I stare directly into my eyes
I See ME, MYSELF, AND MY PURPOSE
On February 3, 2018 College Now students, faculty, staff, alumni, families and guests came together for the 50th Anniversary Share the Dream Banquet. This long-standing tradition for College Now celebrates the successes and opportunities of our students and takes place every year in the month of February. The event recognizes the first-year students as they are officially accepted into the University.

This 50th anniversary year, we were joined by alumni in our celebration. And as always, we recognized academic achievement as well as completion of the program. This year 34 first-year students in the College Now/START program graduated with a minimum GPA of 3.0 earning themselves the UMass Dartmouth Talent Merit Scholarship. *Thirty-four of our first-year students were also awarded the UMass Dartmouth Talent Merit Scholarship for achieving a minimum GPA of 3.0.

What I’ve Learned About Success
by Ethan Machado, ‘21

One thing that I’ve learned about success is that it is a journey. You must first figure out what success is to you. Once you know what success looks like to you, you can start taking your steps to get there. Success doesn’t happen overnight. No one wakes up one day suddenly successful. Your mindset is a big factor in becoming successful. You must be determined. You must want to succeed for yourself. You must keep pushing yourself in the right direction with an optimistic and realistic attitude, and one day you’ll be right where you envisioned.

White Coat Ceremony: A celebration of sophomore nursing students “promoting humanistic, patient-centered care”

On Tuesday, March 1st 2018, nursing students from College Now were welcomed into the nursing program. The event began with the introductions of these new students and all the students took the Nursing Student Oath. We are proud of you!

College Now Students are Forming a New Club on Campus
by Neusa Gomes

College Now Peer Mentors, Tutors, and students are in the process of establishing a new organization here on campus called “Student Success Club.” All students are welcome in this organization. The club’s purpose is to create an environment where students share knowledge amongst each other about resources on campus and propel one another. We want to teach members how to use peers as a tool to succeed because we believe through peers we can find the support and guidance we need to succeed socially and academically. We will provide community services and leadership opportunities along with connections with alumni and other professionals. In addition, we will inspire students to voice their opinions and express their thoughts in order to bring about change. This organization will also provide nonacademic and social activities to engage students and make them feel like they are at home. It has been a challenging process to get this started, but we are moving forward and expect the club to be up and running next semester. The E-board is already established, and there have been a few meetings this spring. We are counting on everyone for support. See you in the fall! The current e-board officers are:

President Neusa Gomes
Secretary Carmen Rodrigues
Public Relations Sendy Fernandes
Vice President Marcia Carvalho
Treasurer Harrison Gbarbo
Event Coordinator Htoo Wah
College Now Students attend the National Society of Black Engineers Annual Convention

By Aldina Vicente

College Now/START students Kevin Francois, Lenitini Goncalves, Nathaniel Wilson, Pascal Alexis, Jason Brice, and Hans "Jerry" Geffrard attended the 44th Annual National Society of Black Engineers Convention held in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in March. The 44th Annual NSBE convention was sponsored by the National Society of Black Engineers, whose mission is to increase the number of African American Engineers and to develop professional opportunities for African American Engineers to excel and impact their communities. At the convention, these Engineering students got the chance to interact with professional recruiters and participate in professional development workshops.

Senior Showcase: Rashelle Noncent

by Harrison Gbarbo

I had the pleasure to sit down with Rashelle Noncent and discuss her experience on campus, as well as the conference trip to Oklahoma. Rashelle is part of the graduating class of 2018- an amazing feat. But everything wasn’t always smooth sailing. Coming to college was tough: “I was not motivated, and I felt alone.” Her journey was harsh, but as time passed, Noncent began to assimilate into the community here on campus. She not only built relationships with friends, but also created long-lasting relationships with her professors.

As these strong relationships eased her transition, there was a transformation within Ms. Noncent; a student who was once detached from campus life began taking on leadership roles, including serving as a Peer Mentor for the College Now/START program. Peer Mentors are responsible for providing academic support for the UNV 101 introduction the university course, and are assigned a College Now counselor who instructs the course.

Drawing on her experience as a part of College Now, Peer Mentors have an excellent advantage when helping the incoming first-year students, because they understand some of the new students circumstances.

During her senior year, Rashelle was chosen to attend the National Conference of Undergraduate Research at the University of Central Oklahoma. This trip provided her with the privilege to present her research on “Education being Rehabilitation” where she discussed the importance of everyone being able to receive an education. It was an extraordinary and an unprecedented experience. There were over four thousand people in attendance, from all 50 states and as many as 14 countries. For Rashelle: “It was a great experience because I got to share my research, and travel to a place I wouldn’t otherwise have a chance to visit.”

“Anxiety checks learning. An overall feeling of inferiority, a temporary humiliation, a fit of depression, defiance or anger, a sense of being rejected, and many other emotional disturbances affect the learning process. The reverse is true; a feeling of well-being and being respected by others stimulates an alert mind, willingness to participate, and an attitude conducive to learning.”

Senior Jared Louf-Woods collected the third All-American honor of his career to finish the season strong for UMass Dartmouth at the men’s track and field Division III Outdoor National Championships on May 26th in LaCrosse, Wisconsin. The College Now student and current student worker, registered a throw of 59.30 meters (194’ 07”) to finish sixth overall in the 20-person field. Jared advanced to the finals on his third attempt but fouled on two of his last three attempts in the championship round. With that, he becomes the third Corsair to earn All-American honors in the hammer throw, joining Rich Volkman (’85) and Stephan Baptista (’86, ’87).

Jared Louf-Woods: Athletic Experience Track & Field Accolades (Not including 2018 Spring):

- 7x LEC champion
- 2x LEC Field athlete of the year
- LEC Meet records: Shot put 16.23m (53’3”) Weight throw 19.23m (63’1”)
- 2018 New England Division III Championship MVP
- New England Region athlete of the year
- 1x NCAA Division III athlete of the week
- 1x All American Weight throw
- School records: Indoor Shotput, Outdoor Shotput Indoor Weight throw, Outdoor Hammer throw

My thoughts on being a Successful Student Athlete by Jared Louf-Woods

All of these accolades look really nice. Sometimes I even forget that I have them. I feel like I don’t want to be defined by those awards because they are all from the work I have done in the past and I’m currently working toward new ones.

I love the recognition I get from my teammates, coaches, family, friends, and colleagues. I realize I love the recognition from them because of the support it gives me not only with athletics but it feels good to know you have a good support group behind you ready to catch you when you fall.

Even though the accolades above look good those have all come with hours of hard work and many attempts that led to many failures. Throughout my first two years I wasn’t very successful; it took hours behind closed doors and making many sacrifices in my social life for my athletic career. I would also like to mention my wonderful girlfriend Quinn who has made many sacrifices, supporting me by putting up with 20-25 hours a week of my practices and weight training, but also taking virtually every Saturday from December to May to support me at our meets.

Every now and then, things get hard. I have some weeks where my class work gets overwhelming and I feel like I have no time in the day. I have learned how to deal with a busy schedule and still get my work done. This took some time. Not only have I failed in Track and Field before, I have also failed in the classroom, and with time management. With those minor setbacks, I learned that I now control all of those things. I know how to put enough work into the classroom in order to make the dean’s list. I know how much effort it takes to become all of those things above. I know how much work it takes to be a good person, a good friend, a good boyfriend, a good son, and a good worker. I know how much work it takes to be a student-athlete.

I can proudly say that with athletics in my life I have learned how much work I need to put in to be the best I can be. At the end of the day I love what I do both academically studying crime and justice and athletically through Track and Field. None of this is possible without the support and guidance from the College Now program. Most importantly, the opportunity that I was given that changed my perspective on hard work and what it means to be successful. That will last a life time.
What does it take to be a Successful Athlete?
By Georgios Papoulis (All American in Track and Field)

Being a student athlete takes a lot of will and time out of your daily tasks. This does not mean you don’t have time to have fun! Everything is about “fun.” If you don’t have fun with what you do, then ask yourself why are you doing this? Is it because of your parents? Or because you have to? Enjoy your time as a college student. Do not let everyone ruin it for you. I like playing sports, which is why I run. I like what I do and I have fun with it. If I did not like it, then it would be a waste of time. Yes, sports take a certain amount of time out of my daily tasks. Putting school work and sports together makes you look better than others, gives you a better “image”, makes you look tough, you have the name “Student athlete”.

Don’t fake it till you make it, fake it till you become it. During the past two years I have learned that nothing is hard, that everything is in my head, and that if you don’t have the will power you won’t get the reward.

Bruno Pires breaks Cape Verden National Record in the Steeplechase

Bruno Pires, a College Now student from New Bedford, stood above the rest, breaking a Cape Verden national record in the steeplechase with a 9:35.11 finish on April 9th at the Corsairs Classic at UMass Dartmouth. The previous record was 9:42.8 set by Antonio Zeferino in 1995. What might be most astonishing about Pires’ record-breaking run was that it was the first time he’d run the event in his career. Pires says he expects to break more Cape Verden records. He’s been researching the records and fully expects to rewrite the record books again. “There’s the mile, and the 5k. I’m going to go for them this year. And if not then the next year and heading into the future,” Pires said.

We are so very proud of you! (from Standard Times, April 9, 2018)

Riley Thomas Named as One of the Unforgettable 100: Best South Coast Athletes

On May 8th, Riley Thomas’ hard work with her high school volleyball team has earned her a spot in Buddy’s Best: the Unforgettable 100: Best South Coast Athletes. Riley has a spot in the GNB Regional Voc-Tech record books, and now a part of the South Coast best athletes. “Riley’s work ethic is unmatched,” head coach Erika Vassal was quoted as saying in a 2016 interview with The Standard-Times. “Her positive attitude is contagious and sets an example of how athletes should conduct themselves, even in adversity. It’s said that the best athletes are those who make their teammates better and she embodies that.” College Now is proud of Riley’s recognition! Check out Riley’s article and achievements at SouthCoastToday.com/BuddysBest (from Standard Times, May 10, 2018)

I would like to thank my College Now counselor, Laurajane Fitzsimons, for guiding me while I was a College Now student, as well as everyone at the College Now office who has been so kind and helpful. I would also like to thank Monica Faria for always being willing to help me even when I wasn’t a START student anymore. Also, I would like to thank my supervisor, Kathryn Doan, for always giving me job opportunities and for checking up on me even when it wasn’t job-related. Finally, I would like to thank everyone who has helped me academically, professionally and personally. I just want to encourage all College Now students and everyone, that anything is possible as long as you put your mind into it. Never give up and even if you only have 2-3 people rooting for you, those are the only voices you should listen to besides your own.

Nathaniel Wilson
My career experience at the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth has been a great collegiate development personally, socially, learning-wise, and general skills I have obtained over a 5-year span. I sincerely want to give my gratitude to every faculty member at College Now and Bottom Line. These two organizations have been the reason for my success. I would not be in this position without their guidance and support. I want to thank Laurajane Fitzsimons and Jen Siegel for being such great advisors/counselors who helped me secure an internship and then job offer from the Gilbane Company. Laurajane and Jen: I love and appreciate them so much.

Keila Eliane Gomes
I feel honored and blessed to be a part of the College Now community. College Now has been an authentic source of inspiration and encouragement. I felt every positive influence from the College Now program, directly or indirectly. "Once College Now, Always College Now" will stick forever in my heart!!!

I have learned that patience and determination are what impact and determine your set of goals. The essence of keeping those driven qualities will lead you anywhere you want to be. My plans are to work in the civil engineering field and to explore solutions that improve environmental growth and public safety.

I am beyond grateful for all the support given to me. I am grateful for learning to be persistent in accomplishing my goals. Majoring in Biology is really tough. But when I finally got accepted into my major last year, it was worth it all.

I am proud of the person I have become through the lessons learned from the college experience. Living on campus allowed me to make connections and memories and to create friendships that enhanced my personality. My family has been one of my biggest supports. I cannot thank them enough in words.

Maria Barahona
I am very thankful that the College Now Program accepted me into the University and believed in my dream goals. I really appreciate the time and effort that College Now took in getting to know my story which gave me the opportunity to excel academically at UMass Dartmouth. Thank you Anne Boisvert for believing in me and helping me.

Carol Bido Infante
My college experience was very challenging, but it helped me grow as a person, and it showed me that everything is achievable when you are determined to do it. Throughout my years at UMD I learned the value of hard work. I would like to thank Bruce, who was my advisor, for always giving me the tools I needed to find my way. I would also like to thank College Now in general for always being there for the students regardless of who their advisor is. You can always count on someone to help you. Thank you for always looking after us, and for getting me this far. I would like to thank everyone that makes College Now possible.

I am proud because I may be working with College Advising Corps, after graduation and for me that represents an opportunity to repay what College Now has done for me, helping other students, so that they have an equal chance at a college education regardless of their background.

Jocelyn Goncalves
I have grown so much in this past five years. I have grown mentally, emotionally, and even spiritually. I am so proud of how hard I have worked and I know that whatever obstacles I face after, I will overcome it. I'm so thankful for college now, especially for the four year scholarship I got because it helped me so much. I also want to thank Laurajane for believing in me and helping me.

During my time at UMass Dartmouth, I have learned that anything I put my mind and hard work into, I can achieve it. I have prepared myself with the knowledge and resources because there comes a time when we have to give back to our community and that is exactly what I am going to be doing after graduation. First, I would like to thank the entire College Now staff members who make College Now happen, I wouldn't be here if it wasn't because of College Now, and for that I am grateful. Then, I would like to thank the entire Crime and Justice Studies Department for going above and beyond with our classes and the professors' teaching styles. I am so blessed to be a part of these two amazing families. “Once College Now, Always College Now.”

Aldina Maiara Vicente
I want to thank everyone in the College Now Program. Thank you for being more than an academic support throughout my pursuit of a career in higher education. Words are certainly not enough to express my gratitude to all what the program has been able to do for me. Thank you sincerely for supporting and believing in me.

I would like to thank Megan Chiavini for being such an exceptional advisor, mentor, and friend. One day, I hope to be able to do for my students what she has done for me and continue to do for others. I thank her for all her efforts in ensuring that all her students take advantage of opportunities presented to them. She is an amazing advisor.

Lentini Goncalves Tavares
College Now is the main reason why I am here today as a graduate majoring in Civil Engineering. Thanks to the College Now program I was able to get accepted into UMass Dartmouth, and was shown a lot of support, love and the right way to achieve my goals. Throughout my academic years I learned a lot about myself. I am a very motivated person, dedicated, and creative. I learned that I am the type of student that always seeks to move forward whenever things get hard and will never give up on my path to success. My plan after graduation is to work as a full time Structural/Civil Engineer in a great company where I will help improve the company and improve myself as well. I would love to thank every staff member from College Now. I could not do it without the support from all of them. They are amazing, caring, passionate, showing me a lot of love throughout my academic years.

College Now is more than a program, it is a family to me. I walked across the stage of graduation by carrying College Now in my chest.

Thank you Craig Elkins, Anne Boisvert, Linda Keith, Olivia Farinha and all the other College Now staff. You guys are amazing.

Finally, I would love to thank my College Now counselor Laurajane Fitzsimons for everything. You are simply amazing, showing me how to grow as a person and student, and always there for me whenever times got hard. I really appreciate you for everything. May God keep blessing your beautiful soul for the wonderful person you are. We love you Laurajane. May God keep blessing every College Now staff and the College Now program as well!

Rijkaard Thomas
If you work hard, everything will work out!

Recently accepted a full-time job offer from GZA GeoEnvironmental Inc. as a Geotechnical Engineer II. Wanted to thank College Now for all the help and support. Thank you for giving me the strong base to start my engineering career. Hope to see you and talk to you soon.

“Even on my most angry song, I'm also still saying, 'Thank you for helping me to learn.' I've always wanted to give voice to that complexity in our experience.”
-Kelela
As Peer Mentors, we are anything our students need us to be: a friend, a tutor, a helping hand, a role model. As upper class students, we have been through this path and are willing to share our experience and make sure the incoming students have everything they need to succeed.

Our goal is to assist, guide and help students adjust to change, develop stronger values, set and achieve their goals, and turn their struggles into strength.

We are always there for our mentees, understanding their different backgrounds and helping them understand how to deal with the challenges they encounter and how to fit in.

We also show them how to manage their time, so they do not feel overwhelmed and have time to enjoy the college life. We do not only help first year students, but anyone who need help acquiring the skills necessary to succeed in college. We are here to help students succeed not only academically, but in life as well.
