“Writing matters, and learning to write can open doors to the world.”
— National Writing Project

“Any book that helps a child to form a habit of reading, to make reading one of his deep and continuing needs, is good for him.”
— Maya Angelou

“Writing and reading are related activities which, when done often, create rich, wonderful, enlightened minds.” - BBWP Teacher Consultant

Red Sox Pitcher Craig Breslow is this year’s spokesperson for the MTA contest that promotes summer reading and writing.

“Any time we can motivate children to read, write and discuss their thinking more, it’s extremely beneficial for their growth and development as engaged readers, writers and learners,”

The focus of SUMMER WRITING CAMP for YOUNG WRITERS is to maintain, enrich, and advance current writing skills.

The camp setting will allow children to be supported in small groups.

The ultimate goal of the writing camp is to build confidence, encourage independence, and advance critical thinking skills while improving writing skills and habits of mind.

The camp will be held in Somerset and will be led by, Susan Carvalho, a local licensed elementary school teacher and trained BBWP Teacher Consultant.

SUMMER WRITING CAMP for YOUNG WRITERS

Something NEW:
Camp will be held for two weeks this year!

3rd grade and beyond...
If you’ve been with us before, come on back!

Camp registration is open to current 3rd, 4th and 5th grade students and beyond.

Save by coming to both sessions... Camp fee is $125 for one week, and $175 for both weeks.

What’s the same ... the time will again be 9:00 to 12:00, Monday through Thursday

BBWP, Buzzards Bay Writing Project, is a site of the National Writing Project (NWP). BBWP and NWP are non-profit organizations.
