

PRE-LAW & 3+3

Advising Guide

2023/24 Academic Year

UMass | Dartmouth

Introduction

Congratulations on pursuing the UMass Dartmouth Pre-Law advising track.

Your dedication to pursuing your undergraduate degree and pursuit of admissions to a law degree will be fully supported by your UMass Dartmouth major advisor and Pre-Law advisor.

All students are responsible for tracking their progress and making satisfactory progression in their bachelor and minor degree requirements and towards Law School admissions.

Students are responsible for meeting regularly with your Academic advisor, minor advisor (when applicable), and Pre-Law advisor.

Please note this advising handbook is not an exhaustive list of all activities a Pre-Law student should do and does not guarantee a student will be admitted to Law School by engaging in this advising program.

UMassD Pre-Law FAQs

How do I know if Pre-Law is the right choice for me?

Pre-Law at UMass Dartmouth is an advising track and program, so any UMassD undergraduate in any major can participate. Choosing to participate does not mean you have to apply to Law School, in fact many students have chosen to pursue other paths after graduation.

If you have an interest in law or legal career fields, participating in Pre-Law supports you in discovering if Law School is the best choice for you and it connects you with other students who are also interested in this field.

Some factors and activities that students should consider and engage in when choosing to participate in Pre-Law during their undergraduate degree:

- Asking what is my future career goals?
- Participate in a law-based internship or work experience
- Engage with the Pre-Law Society
- Attend legal networking events
- Attend a Law School open house or visit a class at a Law School
- Network with practicing attorneys and engage in an informational interview about their career and Law School experience

What major should I choose for Pre-Law?

Students may choose from several majors at UMass Dartmouth for their Pre-Law pathway.

Popular majors include the Political Science – Pre-Law concentration, Psychology, Philosophy, Economics and Liberal Arts. Please note that select majors participate in the 3+3 fast track pathway, please reach out to the pre-law advisor for more information. Students should work with their major advisor and Pre-Law advisor to ensure their degree meets their career and Law School goals.

Please see your advisor or the CAS STAR Center to discuss the common majors which students choose for Pre-Law here at UMass Dartmouth including, but not limited to:

- College of Arts and Sciences
 - Political Science, Pre-Law concentration
 - Philosophy
 - Economics
 - Sociology and Anthropology
 - Multidisciplinary
 - Liberal Arts
 - History
 - Crime and Justice Studies
 - English
- Charlton College of Business
 - General Business

Should I elect a minor?

Yes, if it fits in your program of study! Many students choose the Legal Studies minor at UMass Dartmouth in addition to their major program of study. The Legal Studies minor offers students a unique opportunity to explore the legal system and the role of law in society from an interdisciplinary perspective. This minor is designed for students who are interested in learning about the law, the various facets of the legal system, the role of law in society, and how law shapes and is shaped by historical, political, economic, and social forces. Please note 3+3 studies often cannot fit a minor into their program of studies, please see the 3+3 advisor for more information.

For more information, please contact the Legal Studies minor director.

Are there particular classes I have to take to get into Law School?

There are no specific requirements for classes for more Law School admissions. However, there are particular skills gleaned from certain classes that would benefit students in their Law School admissions and future Law School studies.

At UMass Dartmouth we encourage students to work with their academic major advisor to make sure they are meeting program requirements.

Some classes we encourage students to consider, but are not required to take, related to Pre-Law include:

- PHL 110 Logic
- PSC 322 Constitutional Law
- PSC 323 Civil Rights and Liberties
- PHL 326 Philosophy of Law
- Statistics courses
- Economics courses such as Microeconomics and Macroeconomics
- Research Methods and Writing course

What is LSAC?

The Law School Admissions Council (LSAC) is a nonprofit organization who provides services and information to Law Schools and law students. LSAC services include the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT) required by the majority of American Bar Association (ABA) accredited Law Schools. LSAC also provides resources such as study guides, forums, and other support for the field of law and its students. LSAC also provides the Credential Assembly Service (CAS) which many Law Schools utilize for the admissions process.

All UMassD students will set up a LSAC account preferably in their first year of Pre-Law.

Website: <https://www.lsac.org/>

How do I study for LSATs?

There are many ways to study for LSATs, which are a critical component of your Law School admissions application. UMassD 3+3 students are encouraged to start studying the summer before their 3rd undergraduate year and traditional undergraduates in the summer between their 3rd and 4th undergraduate year.

Please see the LSAT Resources appendix for suggestions for studying. Your Pre-Law advisor will meet with you and other students to help discuss a good plan for you to achieve your LSAT goals.

How do I choose a Law School to apply to?

There are many Law School options to choose from and no one school is the proper fit for everyone.

There are several factors you should consider when choosing a Law School including:

1. Location
2. Acceptance Rates
3. Average LSAT and GPA requirements
4. Costs, fees and scholarships
5. Full time and part time study opportunities
6. Clinic opportunities
7. JD, LLM, Masters, Certificate and other options
8. Specializations
9. ABA certification
10. Career support
11. Graduate employment outcomes and careers

Tools such as the LSAC Law Hub can help you narrow down your search by your key criteria.

Students should meet with their academic and Pre-Law advisor to discuss options and start refining their lists as early as their sophomore year to help in their Pre-Law pathway.

Where should I intern or work to prepare for Law School?

Internships and work experience can strengthen your Law School application and are a great way to identify your law career interests. Students should work with their academic advisor to identify required internship components in their major program of study. The Pre-Law advisor can be a great resource for outreach to potential law based options.

UMassD students should register early for the UMassD Career Center Handshake system and participate in Career Center events.

Website: <https://www.umassd.edu/career/>

Students should also join the UMassD Alumni Corsair Network to network with alumni in legal related fields.

Students should also create a LinkedIn profile early to facilitate networking.

Can I study abroad?

Yes! In fact, this could be a great opportunity for Pre-Law students to earn international experience and network in the legal field. Students interested in a study abroad option should first consult with their academic major advisor and then reach out to the UMassD Study Abroad office.

Website: <https://www.umassd.edu/ipo/study-abroad/>

Check out the experience of Shea Hazel who studied abroad in Ireland with a law focus:

<https://shazelipo.sites.umassd.edu/>

Other options include states-based study away terms including options such as the Washington Center.

What is the 3+3 Program?

UMass Dartmouth and UMass Law have established a 3+3 joint degree program to offer an accelerated pathway to an undergraduate and law degree. The fast-track program enables qualifying students to substitute the first year of Law School for the final year of their undergraduate program, thereby earning both a bachelor's degree from UMass Dartmouth and a Juris Doctor from UMass Law in six rather than seven years.

Advantages of the 3+3 Program

- Provides a fast track to a law degree and legal career.
- Saves one year of tuition costs and time.
- Provides a smooth transition from undergraduate to law curriculum.
- Program students enjoy library privileges at both institutions throughout their residence at either institution.

For more information on the 3+3 program, please set up an appointment with Jessica Oliveira, STAR Center Academic Advisor at umassd.edu/cas/star

Website: <https://www.umassd.edu/Pre-Law/three-plus-three-program/>

How do I apply to Law School?

Each Law School establishes their own application, process, deadlines and admissions requirements. Students should early in their Pre-Law advising establish a list of Law Schools that fit their interests and career goals. Students will work with their academic advisor and Pre-Law advisor on the application starting as early as the summer prior to their final year of their undergraduate program, a year before the start of their potential for Law School enrollment.

Please see the Tips for Applying to Law School section after the Checklist and Program Schedule

How do I get recommendations?

Students should review the requirements for recommendation letters for each Law School they are applying to. Typically, a student should choose a faculty who can speak to their academic progress and work. Students can also choose a work experience or internship experience supervisor who can also speak to their performance and work at those sites. In some cases, Law Schools also require a Pre-Law advisor letter. Students should identify and speak with recommenders at least a year before their application submission and then ask at least 3-6 months in advance for their letter of recommendation.

How do I write the personal statement or essay?

Each Law School establishes their own requirements for the admissions essay and statement. Students should review the parameters as soon as the application is opened for the admission year. UMass Dartmouth students should work with their academic and Pre-Law advisor on the parameters, find a reader they trust to review their writing, and work with resources such as the Writing and Multiliteracy Center (WMC). There are digital resources, such as Grammarly, that students can use to review their writing.

How do I pay for Law School?

Paying for Law School is a commitment and factor that all students should consider in their choice of Law Schools to apply to. Law Schools typically have several scholarships and fellowships available to 1L students, and students should evaluate these opportunities when developing their Law School admission list.

Students should review the FAFSA requirements and apply when FAFSA opens typically around October 1.

There are several external scholarships and fellowship opportunities. These can be found on sites such as LSAC, and should be researched in advance of applying to Law School.

Do I have to have a resume for Law School?

Many Law Schools do ask candidates for an updated resume reflecting their education and work experience. UMassD students can use the Career Center and participate in workshops to update and develop their resume for Law School admission requirements.

Do I have to participate in the Pre-Law Society?

UMass Dartmouth, like many undergraduate institutions, has a student group called the Pre-Law Society. The student led group organizes activities such as alumni panels, Law School visits, LSAT prep, and other activities to support students on the Pre-Law track. Participation in the Pre-Law Society is optional, but strongly encouraged. This type of leadership experience, in addition to other student groups such as Student Government Association is strongly encouraged to support your future Law School admission goals.

Where do I get Pre-Law help?

UMass Dartmouth offers students Pre-Law support through the Pre-Law advisor who is a supporting role in addition to your academic major program advisor. Students should meet with the Pre-Law advisor at least one time per year to check in on their progress and Law School admissions preparation.

Students in the 3+3 UMassD and UMass Law program should meet with the Pre-Law advisor and the 3+3 advisor each semester to ensure they are on track and have the support to apply to Law School in their third year. Students in the 3+3 track are not guaranteed admission to UMass Law and should make sure to meet with their advisors regularly to support their Law School application.

Are there documents that I need to fill out?

For Pre-Law advising you can email the program advisor who will add you to the list and denote your advising in COIN.

For 3+3 advising, students will need to meet with the 3+3 advisor and make sure to fill out the following forms in addition to denoting your 3+3 pathway in COIN:

1. 3+3 Declaration Form
2. 3+3 Status Form (for 4th year and 1L)
3. 3+3 Transfer of Classes Form (for 4th year and 1L)

Student Name:Expected Graduation Date:*Major(s):*Expected UMassLaw Entrance Date:*UMS Number:

The University of Massachusetts Dartmouth ("UMass Dartmouth") and the University of Massachusetts Law School ("UMass Law") has established a 3+3 program that enables students to finish all of their undergraduate major, university studies and college requirements in three years and then start their first year of law school at UMass School of Law. Students who select this option and are successfully admitted to the program will have their first year of law school fulfill elective requirements. Upon successful completion of these requirements, students will graduate with a Bachelor's Degree and a Juris Doctor Degree in 6 years.

If you are interested in this opportunity, please fill out the declaration form below. Filling this declaration form and participating in the 3+3 track does not guarantee admission to UMassLaw and does not guarantee students will graduate in 6 years. Students are encouraged to declare this track no later than the end of the first semester of sophomore year to ensure successful progress. Students may start this track and choose to stop the track at any time before their senior year.

I, _____, declare an interest in the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth and University of Massachusetts Law School's joint program, leading to a Bachelor's degree and a Juris Doctor degree in six years.

UMass Dartmouth College of Arts and Sciences juniors who meet the following requirements are eligible for application for admission to UMass Law via the 3+3 program under the following terms:

1. Successful completion of the work acceptable for a bachelor's degree at UMass Dartmouth by the end of the junior year (i.e., no less than 90 credits). At least 30 credits must be earned at UMass Dartmouth.
2. Successful completion of all university, college, and major requirements for the bachelor's degree, other than free electives and requirements for which a first-year law school course may serve as an acceptable substitute.
3. Fulfillment of all admissions requirements normally imposed by the law school, including an acceptable performance on the LSAT, letters of recommendation and a personal statement.
4. A cumulative grade point average of a 3.0 or better which meets the standards of UMassLaw.
5. At least two semesters of pre-law advisement.
6. Acknowledgement of good standing from your pre-law advisor and/or 3+3 advisor.

Stipulations for the UMassD 4th year and UMassLaw 1L Year

Below are terms that students must meet in their senior year at UMass Dartmouth and UMassLaw. This is not an exhaustive list, students are required to meet the terms of the UMassD catalog year for their major and matriculation date:

- Students will be admitted only as full-time students in the University of Massachusetts Law School and will follow the usual course of study for full-time, first- year law students (31 credits). The program is not intended to apply to part-time law students.
- Students must complete all undergraduate major, general education, and college requirements by the end of the third year, leaving only free elective credits or other program requirements needed to complete the 120-credit Bachelor's degree.
- After successful completion of the first year at the Law School (2.7 GPA is required to be in good academic standing and is the minimum GPA for graduation from the law school), the 31 credits earned will be transferred to UMass Dartmouth as free elective credits or appropriate credit towards requirements, and will be sufficient to complete the UMass Dartmouth requirements for the bachelor's degree. The student will graduate from UMass Dartmouth in the Spring semester of the year.
- First year law school grades will not be included with the student's UMass Dartmouth grades in calculating the graduating grade point average.
- Students who have less than a 2.1 GPA at the end of the first semester of law school or less than a 2.6 GPA at the end of the first year of law school will be academic dismissed from the law school. Students with a GPA between 2.6 and 2.7 after the first year of law school will be allowed one semester of probation to raise their GPA to at least a 2.7, which is the GPA required to graduate.
- Students who do not successfully complete the first year of law school or who choose to withdraw, may return to UMass Dartmouth the next semester by completing a readmission form. The readmission fee will be waived. Any completed coursework at the law school will be treated by the university in the same way as other transfer credits.
- UMass Dartmouth seniors in their first year at the law school will be required pay the same tuition and fees to the law school as other first-year law students, but will not be required to pay the tuition or fees to UMass Dartmouth undergraduate program.
- Students in the program have access to library privileges at both institutions throughout their residence at their institution.
- Participation in the 3+3 program is not a guarantee of admission to UMass School of Law.
- It is the student's responsibility to meet the program's academic and eligibility requirements, to prepare for the Law School Admission Test, and to comply with all admissions procedures required by the law school including application deadlines, GPA, recommendation letters and personal statements.
- The program is intended for students who make a conscientious choice to attend UMass School of Law and complete their Juris Doctor Degree at the law school. Students can apply for early admission to another law school or transfer at a later date from UMass Law to another law school.

About the Pre-Law Living Learning Community (LLC)

The Pre-Law LLC is open to first year undergraduate students in all majors who have an interest in the law. Students who live in and experience the Pre-Law LLC will be better prepared to enter law school and legal careers after graduation through development of relationships with pre-law advisors and faculty who are actively involved in teaching law-related courses and mentoring student organizations including the Pre-Law Society. Students can engage in fun learning activities from LSAT Game Night to movie nights and mock trials.

This Learning Community is scheduled to start in Fall 2023 in Spruce.

Pre-Law LLC Goals

- Develop the mindset to prepare for law school or related legal careers in the public and private sectors.
- Live and learn in a collegial academic space with your peers who have a shared common purpose focused on law, ethics, and civility
- Create lifelong friendships, faculty mentoring relationships, and professional networks with lawyers, judges, and legal stakeholders on campus and in our South Coast community and beyond

Sample Learning Engagement Activities Fall 2023

1. Monthly LSAT Game Night – team up with your peers in a game-based environment to tackle LSAT questions – it is never too early to start studying!
2. Alumni seminars and career panels– Meet with UMass Dartmouth alumni who are working in the legal field and meet professionals who are engaged in law work from legislative to judicial to private sector to develop your professional network and explore career pathways in law.

Tips on Choosing a Law School

There are several factors you should consider when choosing a Law School including:

1. Location
2. Acceptance Rates
3. Average LSAT and GPA requirements
4. Costs, fees and scholarships
5. Full time and part time study opportunities
6. Clinic opportunities
7. JD, LLM, Masters, Certificate and other options
8. Specializations
9. ABA certification
10. Career support
11. Graduate employment outcomes and careers

Tools such as the LSAC Law Hub can help you narrow down your search by your key criteria.

(Adapted from the Boston College Law School Locator)

The Law School locator is a tool developed by NAPLA in partnership with Boston College with the last available edition of 2016-17.

The UMass Dartmouth Pre-Law program engaged in an update to support our undergraduate students and alumni pursuing law school.

The LSAT and GPA are two of four primary indicators which are evaluated in the law school admissions process, which for the most part is a holistic process.

UMass Dartmouth believes that students in choosing law schools should consider several factors in addition to the GPA and LSAT of their target law schools:

1. Location
2. Acceptance Rates
3. Average LSAT and GPA requirements
4. Costs, fees and scholarships
5. Full time and part time study opportunities
6. Clinic opportunities
7. JD, LLM, Masters, Certificate and other options
8. Specializations
9. ABA certification
10. Career support
11. Graduate employment outcomes and careers

The data included are the most recent data available by school and include primary Fall 2022 class data. Please note that the matrix is intact from the previous iterations, however, there are new phenomenon in the LSAT and GPA rates including law schools with GPAs higher than expected for the LSAT range. These are denoted by the new categories of G and O+. The schools in each category are on the following pages and include the median LSAT and GPA scores for easy reference.

UMass Dartmouth and UMass Law have established a 3+3 joint degree program to offer an accelerated pathway to an undergraduate and law degree.

The fast track program enables qualifying students to substitute the first year of law school for the final year of their undergraduate program, thereby earning both a bachelor's degree from UMass Dartmouth and a Juris Doctor from UMass Law in six rather than seven years.

3+3 UMassD + UMassLaw Advantages

The program leads to the award of a bachelor's degree by your undergraduate institution, UMass Dartmouth, and a Juris Doctor degree by UMass Law.

3+3 Advantages

- Earn your undergraduate and graduate law degree in 6 rather than 7 years
- Provides a fast track to a law degree and legal career
- Saves one full year of tuition and living expenses
- Provides a smooth transition from your undergraduate education to law school
- Program students enjoy library privileges throughout their enrollment at either institution
- Eliminates the process and cost of applying to multiple law schools
- Stay right here on the South Coast for your education

Eligibility for UMassLaw Admissions

Juniors who meet the following requirements are eligible for admission to UMass Law via the 3+3 program under the following terms and should consult with their major degree program advisor to ensure eligibility:

- Successful completion of the work acceptable for a bachelor's degree at UMass Dartmouth by the end of the junior year (i.e., no less than 90 credits). At least 30 credits must be earned at UMass Dartmouth in the undergraduate major.
- Successful completion of all university, college, and major requirements for the bachelor's degree, other than free electives and requirements for which a first-year law school course may serve as an acceptable substitute.
- Fulfillment of all admissions requirements normally imposed by the law school, including an acceptable performance on the LSAT.
- A cumulative grade point average of a 3.0 or better.
- At least two semesters of pre-law advisement.
- Acknowledgement of good standing from your pre-law advisor.

Pre-Law Advising at UMass Dartmouth

The Pre-Law program prepares students for admission into a quality law school. Students will work with our Pre-Law Advisor and will select recommended courses that will help them prepare for the academic rigor of law school and the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT). The program assists students in being well positioned to succeed in their legal education and career.

Pre-Law students are encouraged to choose a major of interest that will help them develop their reading, writing, and analytical skills. Students may choose any major across the university when planning to pursue admittance to law school. Some of the most popular options include Political Science: Pre-Law concentration, Philosophy, and Crime & Justice Studies.

Pre-Law students are not automatically part of the 3+3 Program but should consider the program if it fits in their program of study. Students should meet with their primary major advisor to ensure the 3+3 is the correct choice for their degree path.

Application to UMassLaw

The application deadline for UMass Law is June 30. Students planning to enroll in the 3+3 program must complete their eligibility requirements, take the LSAT, and apply before this deadline in the spring/summer before their undergraduate senior year. Participation in the 3+3 program is not a guarantee of admission to law school.

The University Senior Year/Law School First Year

3+3 students are admitted as full-time students at UMass Law and will follow the usual course of study for full-time, first-year law students. Upon successful completion of the first year of law school, the credits earned will be transferred to your undergraduate degree as free electives or appropriate credit towards your undergraduate program/university graduation requirements. Students will thereby have graduated with a bachelor's degree from UMass Dartmouth, and will be eligible to walk at commencement.

Fast Track

The College of Arts & Sciences offers a number of programs to prepare students to pursue majors and careers including Pre-Law.

These programs are advising pathways designed to prepare students for majors in specific fields of interest. We help students determine their desired path and meet any needed requirements to be admitted into the related major of choice, or to prepare for admission into law school or other professional programs.

Pre-Law at UMass Dartmouth

The Pre-Law program prepares students for admission into a quality law school. Students will work with our Pre-Law Advisor and will select recommended courses that will help them prepare for the academic rigor of law school and the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT). The program assists students in being well positioned to succeed in their legal education and career.

Pre-Law students are encouraged to choose a major of interest that will help them develop their reading, writing, and analytical skills. Students may choose any major across the university when planning to pursue admittance to law school. Some of the most popular options include Political Science: Pre-Law concentration, Philosophy, and Crime & Justice Studies.

Pre-Law students may also consider the 3+3 Program with UMass School of Law, which provides a fast track to a law degree in six rather than seven years. The program leads to a bachelor's degree at UMassD and a Juris Doctor degree with UMass School of Law.

Choosing your related Pre-Law major

The law provides several opportunities for specialization from entertainment to environmental to criminal law. Students may matriculate into any UMass Dartmouth major and elect the pre-law advising option.

Students will work with their advisor to design their program of study to include relevant course work which can include ethics, courses in environmental law, employment law, constitutional law, international law, and women and law.

Popular options for Pre-Law students include the Political Science BA with a pre-law concentration. Students may also elect to add the Legal Studies minor to their major program of study.

Students may also elect the fast-track 3+3 option, taking their first year of law classes in their fourth year of undergraduate study.

Additional Option: 3+3 UMassD + UMassLaw

The UMassD and UMass Law's 3+3 joint degree program offers an accelerated pathway to an undergraduate and law degree. The 3+3 program enables qualifying students to substitute the first year of law school for the final year of their undergraduate program, earning both the bachelor's and juris doctor degrees in six rather than seven years. Participating students will save a full year of tuition and living expenses. The program leads to the award of a bachelor's degree by your undergraduate institution, UMass Dartmouth, and a Juris Doctor degree by UMass Law.

3+3 Advantages

- Provides a fast track to a law degree and legal career
- Saves one full year of tuition and living expenses
- Provides a smooth transition from your undergraduate education to law school
- Program students enjoy library privileges throughout their enrollment at either institution
- Eliminates the process and cost of applying to multiple law schools

Additional Option: Legal Studies Minor

The 18 credit Legal Studies minor offers students a unique opportunity to explore the legal system and the role of law in society from an interdisciplinary perspective. This minor is designed for students who are interested in learning about the law, the various facets of the legal system, the role of law in society, and how law shapes and is shaped by historical, political, economic, and social forces.

Additional Option: Pre-Law Living Learning Community

The Pre-Law Living Learning Community is open to all first year students in all majors who have an interest in the law. Students who live in and experience the Pre-Law LLC will be better prepared to enter law school and legal careers after graduation through development of relationships with pre-law advisors and faculty who are actively involved in teaching law-related courses and mentoring student organizations including the Pre-Law Society. Students have the opportunity to engage in fun learning activities from LSAT Game Night, to movie nights, and mock trial.
