

Mentoring Programs for Newly Admitted Lawyers in Massachusetts

Statewide Bar Associations

Massachusetts Bar Association:

- The Mentor Program offers MBA members the opportunity to speak with an experienced attorney for advice. Mentors are knowledgeable practitioners, in good standing, have practiced law for more than seven years and have volunteered to advise other attorneys on selected legal topics.

- MBA Mentoring Circles offers a unique spin on conventional mentoring by combining varying professional levels together and providing all members, senior and junior level, with the resources they need to develop and improve their management and leadership skills and grow within their profession. While offering guidance, advice and valuable insights to one another, members of our mentoring circles will provide support and encouragement in a confidential setting.

- Massachusetts Bar Association's Law Practice Management Section is developing a program in conjunction with the Massachusetts Law Office Assistance Program to provide limited technical assistance to both new lawyers as well as more experienced lawyers to assist in the management of effective private law practice, including such topics as technology, finance and billing, human resources, marketing, general law office administration and ethics.

County/Regional Bar Associations

Bar Association of Norfolk County: The Norfolk County Bar Association has a mentor panel that includes attorneys willing to act as mentors to new attorneys beginning their law practice but is open to other attorneys seeking further legal assistance. The new attorneys can submit their request for an area of law and the bar disseminates that information throughout the membership in order to find a match.

Barnstable County Bar Association: The Barnstable County Bar Association is establishing an attorney mentor program for its lawyers this year.

Boston Bar Association: The Boston Bar Association (BBA) has an established Group Mentoring Program. Noting that an indicator of career success for lawyers is having a supportive mentoring environment, the BBA's group mentoring program aims to build networks for lawyers and support a new generation of diverse leaders in our legal community. Each of the mentoring groups is led by two experienced mentors working with eight to ten participants. Our groups are open to lawyers from all backgrounds and practice areas who have been admitted to the bar eight years or less. The BBA also has an array of programming for newly admitted lawyers – including networking, practical skills workshops, and other training – primarily through its New Lawyers Section.

Essex County Bar Association: The Essex County Bar Association (ECBA) promotes mentoring by contacting established members and connecting them with new attorneys who practice in the same area. While this is done at the request of the new attorney, the ECBA allows the relationship to develop on its own. The bar holds social events and seminars in order to encourage mentor/mentee relationships.
